Gull Lake residents mourn drowning victim

By Lisa Gervais

A big white teddy bear sits at the gate of the University of Toronto's Survey Camp on Deep Bay Road in Minden - site of the drowning death of an 18-year-old Mississauga teen Sept. 4.

Resident Richard Bradley said he put it there because he cares. It's his thing. He put a large bear at the Toronto van attack memorial and two smaller bears at the lights near the Minden ValuMart where Terrence Bradley was killed last Christmas eve.

This time around, he said, "I put it there to show the family of Anand Baiju, those classmates and first response workers that tried to save him, the camp staff, the University of Toronto Engineering Faculty, which my father graduated from, the entire U of T community, and our Minden Hills community that I care about them, share their pain, grieve with them and offer up the bear for anyone that needs that big teddy bear hug," Bradley told The Highlander this week.

"Even though Anand may have only been here for an hour or two, for that time he was a part of the Minden community. He died here and he will be remembered and mourned here," Bradley said.

Minden Hills Coun. Pam Sayne, who represents the area, told The Highlander, the university site is a "generous neighbour hosting many Gull Lake resident events. We can only provide condolences of this very saddening occurrence."

Haliburton Highlands OPP detachment commander Liane Spong-Hooyenga said officers responded to a call for help at 4:45 p.m. last Tuesday.

"An 18-year-old male from the Mississauga area had been pulled from the water ... EMS was also on scene and efforts were made to resuscitate the victim. The male party was transported to the Haliburton Highlands Health Services Hospital in Minden where he was later pronounced deceased.

U of T bought Gull Lake camp in 1919

"The male party had been with a group from the University of Toronto who were staying at the camp. He had become separated from a group in and around the water," she said.

The U of T website issued a statement saying the university community is mourning the loss.

The site said the student was part of a group taking part in an engineering course.

The week's programming at the camp was subsequently cancelled, Cristina Amon, dean of the Faculty of Applied Science and Engineering said in the statement.

"Our attention must be with those affected by this terrible tragedy," she said in a message to engineering students, faculty and staff.

"The thoughts of our entire community are with the family and friends of the student who died."

The U of T bought the 175-acre property on Gull Lake in 1919 as a site for engineering students to learn surveying and project management.

Today, it's used to teach land surveying, integrated water system and geology.

Baiju's family and friends launched a GoFundMe campaign to raise money for his funeral.

"He was a great son, brother, friend, and moreover, a wonderful personality.

"To his parents, he was the only hope for them and dedicated their whole life for his studies. Please help and support Mr. and Mrs. Baiju at this tough time," the site reads.

It raised $27,423, surpassing its $20,000 goal.

County cracks down on shoreline tree cutting

By Mark Arike

People caught breaking the county's Shoreline Tree Preservation Bylaw may end up paying a larger fine.

Planning director Charley White recently recommended increasing the current $675 on-the-spot fine to $925, which includes a victim surcharge. Offenders can also face a $1,000 fine if the matter ends up in court.

The purpose of the bylaw is to "protect trees in areas adjacent to the shorelines of lakes, rivers and navigable waterways."

White said representatives of the Ministry of the Attorney General told her that increasing the fine "could be tricky and not supported by the province."

"I think it clearly says we're serious about this," said Coun. Brent Devolin. "I trust your judgement ... if they said this is as far as you can stretch that rubber band without getting a denial, then it's a good first step."

Coun. Carol Moffatt agreed with Devolin but said it's not enough.

"I think there's an awful lot of people who would be happy to pay a $1,000 fine for the sake of what they want on their land," said Moffatt. "Again, we're limited by a process in which we don't have the ultimate control and that remains frustrating."

Coun. Andrea Roberts pointed out the offender would also have to spend money to remediate their property. Deputy Warden Liz Danielsen said she has no sympathy in that situation.

"I'm a little bit disappointed we're so closely controlled by the province," she said, adding the trees and water "mean so much more" here than in an urban environment. She asked for "little hesitancy" when providing tickets.

Earlier this summer, council requested staff review the current bylaw and find ways to strengthen it for the short-term while "a more comprehensive shoreline protection bylaw and policy is undertaken."

Council directed staff to apply to the ministry to increase the fine amount. If approved, the surcharge will be added to it.

White encouraged property owners to call the county first before starting any landscape work.

AH will close roads to leaf watchers annually

Algonquin Highlands will implement temporary road closures for fall colour watchers annually following last year's successful pilot project.

Many fall colour tourists travelling along Highway 60 to Algonquin Park had been causing congestion on side roads through Oxtongue Lake as they tried to bypass congestion on the highway and were often trespassing on private property.

At a special meeting Sept. 4, council passed a bylaw to implement the closures to through traffic annually from the third Tuesday of September until the Tuesday following Thanksgiving Day. Affected roads are Oxtongue Lake, Blue Spruce, Algonquin Outfitters, Harris, Tom Parris and Elliot.

Closures for 2018 will run from Sept. 18 to Oct. 9. (Lisa Harrison)

Minden bridge headed for costly fix

By Lisa Gervais

The engineers hired to check out Minden's main street bridge are recommending council spend $700,000 to $800,000 to fix up the aging structure.

Roads superintendent Travis Wilson tabled a report on the Sunnybrook Bridge to council's Aug. 30 meeting for information only.

Last December, council awarded an RFP for consulting and engineering services to Tulloch Engineering. The work included a feasibility study comparing costs of various types of rehabilitation.

Wilson said they came back with five options.

Option one is a full replacement and road reconstruction, costing $4.5 to $5 million. Option two is a full rehabilitation with major modifications, at $8-10 million. Option three is Tulloch's preferred option of partial rehabilitation, including Ontario Structure Inspection Manual (OSIM), at $700,000 - $800,000 and option four, OSIM recommendations, at $300,000 - $400,000. Option five is to do nothing.

"Tulloch Engineering recommends option three, which includes OSIM-recommended improvements, barrier-free sidewalks, replacement of failing retaining walls, replacement of handrails, improvements to lighting, and replacement of asphalt wearing surface/waterproofing," Wilson said in his report.

He added the option will marginally improve the sightlines at Invergordon and Water Street as the sidewalk will be cantilevered off of the structure. He said the proposed work will give the township bridge another 30 years.

He said if council does nothing, the engineers predict the township will need a load rating within 10 years and will have to do an extensive rehabilitation or replacement within 15.

Wilson said in staff's opinion, while improvements to sightlines and sidewalks may be preferred as outlined in option three, the cost is double that of option four (OSIM improvements), with the same expected life of 30 years.

The engineering and design work have been included in the 2018 budget. With council now in a lame duck position, Wilson said staff have directed Tulloch to continue the design phase based on Option 3, with the ability to tender the work in 2019 as another option if the new council opts for that.

Coun. Pam Sayne said that long-term, the township has to plan for a second bridge over the Gull River.

During the 2017 flood, the bridge had to be closed for safety reasons and people were forced to bypass around the Gull River. It essentially disconnected the two parts of town.

The Highlander's Mission

To tell the story of Haliburton County each week

To be a source of information and inspiration through stories and ideas

To report on issues, people and events important to the community

To reflect and promote pride in the culture, people and landscape of The Highlands

To encourage Highlanders to believe in themselves, in our community, and in their power to make our place in the world better every day.

Women's rights take centre stage

When it comes to women's rights, it's gearing up to be an interesting week in Haliburton County.

It all begins this Saturday in Minden with a suffrage re-enactment to celebrate the 100th anniversary of the women's vote.

It kicks off at midday at The Village Green with a speech from an actress emulating Margaret Haile. She was the first woman to run for major elected office in the British Empire when she ran in Toronto North in the 1902 provincial election -- even though women were still not allowed to vote.

After the re-enactment speech, women are invited to come in costume and march down Bobcaygeon Road to the Minden Hills museum and heritage village for an afternoon tea.

It is fitting since these afternoon teas were the venues for most of suffrage movement planning at the turn of the century.

It's a period in history worth celebrating as these pioneering women fought for the rights women now take for granted.

On a local level, the importance of women in provincial and municipal politics is profound. Our long-time MPP, Laurie Scott, is Ontario's Minister of Labour. And, at the moment, the warden and deputy-warden of Haliburton County are both women. The mayor of Algonquin Highlands is a woman.

The deputy-mayors of AH, Highlands East, Minden Hills, and Dysart are all women. Each municipality is well-represented by female councillors.

In AH, if Brian Lynch were to lose his seat to Jennifer Dailloux, we could have a first-ever, all-female council in the Highlands. There are also a number of female candidates already acclaimed or running in the upcoming fall election - 18. (Incidentally, there are 33 men).

The other significant event sees Take Back the Night in Haliburton grow to essentially a two-day program.

Thanks to the prompting of the Canadian Federation of University Women here in Haliburton, there will be a screening of a documentary entitled A Better Man at the Northern Lights Performing Arts Pavilion.

It's a 2017 Canadian documentary co-directed by Attiva Khan, a survivor of domestic abuse. In it, she meets with the man who abused her to see if he can take responsibility to heal and repair the harm he did. It'll be shown at 6 p.m. next Wednesday, Sept. 19.

The next day, Thursday, Sept. 20, Take Back the Night events will shift from the high school field to Rotary Park before moving on to the streets of Haliburton. People are encouraged to gather from 5 p.m. to make signs. The actual vigil will take place at 7 p.m. followed by the march. There are lots of partners this year, in addition to the Kawartha Sexual Assault Centre, they include the CFUW, Visible Voices Arts Studio and the YWCA Haliburton.

This event comes at a time when we are reading more and more in the news about an apparent backlash to the #metoo movement. It makes the conversation about consent - at a time when young men are returning to high school, college and university - even more poignant.

We encourage everybody - not just women - but men: fathers, grandfathers, uncles, brothers, partners and sons, to attend both the suffrage and Take Back the Night events.

The suffrage movement benefitted from the feminist men who lobbied along with women for change. In the same way, men are an integral part of Take Back the Night by demonstrating their support for the continuing anti-violence against women message.

The Outsider

Honk if you're excited

Jolly good, tally ho and roll out the barrel folks, the Glorious Twelfth is upon us, in a Canadian kind of way. In Blighty, that hallowed day in August that the privileged gentry of Blighty look forward to, as it signals the start of the red grouse hunt, is played out here in Haliburton multiple times over from September onward as seasons for first bear and goose, then rabbit, duck, moose, grouse and deer open, much to the glee of us less privileged and not so gentry of souls.

And with the opening of bear and goose season this year came the fall weather, too. A chill in the air and a frost on the ground last weekend. And you know what, it seemed somehow fitting. Hunting is not a pastime played out well in the scorching heat because there are not many of us that would look good in camo body paint. And large chaps running around shirtless, their torsos painted blaze orange would be even more disturbing, to both the wildlife and human onlookers.

No, hunting is best practised in multiple layers, for the sake of modesty and in order to accommodate all the stuff you need in ample pockets. I 'packed' my camo hunting jacket just the other evening, ready for my first goose hunt. Shotgun shells, steel not lead, check; goose call, check; penknife, check; gutting knife, check - there's always room for an extra knife. Camo gloves and balaclava, to hide my lily white skin, check; granola bar and bottle of water, check; license ... darn it, quick drive to Outdoors Plus to get that rectified, and imagine that, I realized I needed another goose call while I was there. Bug spray, hopefully not required but just in case because it is hell trying to sit stock still as the geese fly in when you're getting eaten by fall mosquitoes, check.

My pockets had started to bulge and I felt like I'd put on 50 pounds in weight but not to worry because the optimism and adrenaline would carry me over hill and dale to my first hunt of the year; that and my truck, all the way to the gate in the field that I was hunting in. Strap on my portable camo cushion and sling my gun case over my shoulder and away I'd go.

Oh, almost forgot a large sack of plastic geese, my decoys. No, literally, I almost forgot them. I was half way down my road at six the next morning when the realization hit me.

Spin around, race back to the shed, clamber through all kinds of paraphernalia - from weed whackers to water guns - and drag out the decoys. Now, I'm sweating even though there's frost on the ground. The day is saved though and half an hour later the decoys are grazing in two small flocks in the dawn light that bathes the glistening grass of the frosty field.

I'm catching my breath and cooling off, too. My first hunt of the year has begun and now I can relax. All the anticipation, all the prep, all the polishing of guns and practicing on skeets is done and I can have a slug of my coffee and calm down.

"HONK."

Coffee spilled, heart rate racing, eyes darting, scanning the skies. The geese are coming. The Glorious Twelfth Canadian style is upon us. Happy hunting folks.

This lakefront owner loves rental visitors

Dear editor,
After reading with interest several comments in this paper about short-term rentals, I would like to express my perspective. We live on a popular lake in the area. We live here year-round and don’t rent our home out. But we have several neighbours who do rent and have done so for many years. And we love having the renters here. Only renters seem to enjoy every moment of every day, despite the weather. They swim on cool, grey days. Their infectious giggles can be heard from the docks even in the rain. Kids playing, parents interacting. It’s heartwarming. Often, we will see renters in canoes or kayaks paddling to pull lifejacketed kiddos in a tube or a floatie. Most renters don’t have motor boats, they are so expensive to rent, but they make the most of each and every day. We have witnessed very, very little poor behaviour, certainly no more than can be seen with owners. They seem to feel lucky to be here in our beautiful county and we are happy to welcome them.

Enforcement one option to address drug addiction

By Constable Dianna Dauphinee
Community Safety Officer
Haliburton Highlands OPP

The problem of opioid and drug addiction is a reality that we face, even here in Haliburton County. There are many different reasons for this problem, just as there are many different ways of dealing with it. While drug use is illegal and should be enforced, I also believe as a police officer that in certain cases, there are other credible options than just laying down the law.
Drug education, counselling, treatment and other supports can be as effective in protecting public safety as arrests and charges. That’s why many drug strategies across the country, including the HKPR Regional Drug Strategy in Haliburton County, Northumberland County and the City of Kawartha Lakes, advocate four key principles to address drug use and addiction – harm reduction, prevention, treatment and law enforcement.

In Haliburton County, we’re fortunate to have many people and agencies in health care, education, social services, addiction counselling/treatment and policing working together to achieve these four principals. This community partnership translates into valuable harm-reduction programs and services for local residents who use drugs.
Harm reduction is a way to prevent or reduce the risk of injury and illness. Using a seat belt and wearing a bike helmet are two examples of harm reduction. In the case of drug use, the Needle Exchange Program (NEP) in Haliburton is harm reduction in action.

The local NEP provides clean equipment and needles free-of-charge to people who use drugs. The goal is to reduce the risk of infections from people sharing used equipment and needles. It’s the same reason why a locked needle disposal bin has been installed in Haliburton Village this year. The goal is to stop used needles and equipment from being left on the ground or in the garbage where they pose a risk to the public.
The local NEP also provides an opportunity for health providers to give advice, support, treatment and a listening ear to at-risk individuals. Getting rid of NEPs by – to borrow a phrase – simply ‘arresting our way out of addiction problems’ is no answer. Doing so removes an important window to support vulnerable people in our community.

In an ideal world, we could just tell people ‘don’t do drugs’ and they would listen. However, we live in the real world where this is not the case. Let’s be open-minded and realize a proactive, comprehensive approach – harm reduction, prevention, treatment and law enforcement – is the best way to achieve community safety and well-being.

Highlander election

Editor's note: We have asked all candidates in the upcoming municipal elections the following three questions. This week, we are focusing on Algonquin Highlands.

- 1) Tell me a little bit about yourself - particularly what would make you a good candidate - ie. previous work experience, or volunteering for the township are good points.
- 2) Why are you running? What do you think you can do for the ratepayers of Highlands East that your competitors cannot?
- 3) How do you think the township is being run. What would be your good, bad and ugly list?

David Lawson
Ward 1 candidate

1. My family has been in the area for five generations, we love it here. I became a permanent resident in 1999. I've always helped in the community when possible. Since retiring I've joined the Lions Club and I've taken an active volunteer role. I'm very proud of the work I do giving back to the community.

After college I worked 40 years with Xerox, where I excelled and won numerous awards for service and developing technology that improved copier function. I learned how to troubleshoot and prioritize, [learned] people skills and I've learned that before a decision is made research is always necessary. A large part of my career was reading people and guiding them to the solutions they required. I worked as part of a team. A team that works well together is effective.

My plan is to uphold the township plan. I believe in common courtesy and common sense. I've gained the reputation as someone who is honest, reliable, hard-working and able to solve problems others struggle with. I don't mince words, I speak my mind. There is no doubt of my message once I state it [but] I'm open minded and willing to consider other alternatives and adopt [them] if they are the correct way to go. I'm friendly and approachable. I may seem quiet but that is because I am a good listener, beyond that I understand the message people are trying to get across not just what they are saying. I have the ability to drill to the heart of any situation.

2. Julia [Shortreed] is a worthy candidate and I look forward to learning her platform. I've always been community minded. The community needs my expertise and skills. Now that I am retired from Xerox I have time to dedicate to the role of councillor. To me it's not a job but another chance to serve and give back to the community I and my family love so much ... My plan is to actively volunteer for the different committees and dedicate myself to moving their agenda forward.

3. I think the township is doing a good job. I see my role as councillor as one that looks for opportunities to improve and streamline what we are doing, to help residents understand the township plan, what it means and why it is important to adhere to it. The biggest complaint I have heard is about the tipping fees at the landfill site, this concern will take considerable research.

1. I grew up as a cottager and moved to Dorset in 1988 where I raised my two kids who now live here as well. I have just retired from Scotiabank after a 35-year career which included [roles as] Personal Banking Financial Manager and Small Business Financial Manager, which also included supervising local fundraising. After retiring, I spent the summer working part-time for a local business gaining insight into what businesses in our community need to thrive.

2. Now that I am retired, I want to give back to my community. I feel that my career has given me the experience I need as well as insight into the needs and wants of both residents and businesses in our township, which will benefit my role as a councillor. We have a great community with amazing volunteers and I want to commit to continue building on this by representing the constituents of the township. There are numerous projects that I want to be involved in, most particularly affordable housing, which is desperately needed for singles, families and seniors and will help local businesses fill vacant job positions. Preserving the lakes and shorelines is particularly important to keep them healthy and beautiful for everyone to enjoy year-round. Technology is growing by leaps and bounds and working with the new EORN [Eastern Ontario Regional Network] initiative to bring cell service to everyone in our area as well as enabling constituents' internet service [so they can] work from their home or cottage is something I want to be a part of.

3. I have attended council meetings and have seen first-hand the hard work, commitment and fairness as well as a lower tax base compared to other parts of the province [that] our current mayor and councillors are dedicated to providing to the township. I feel that my experience, integrity and commitment will benefit the township and its constituents.

Julia Shortreed
Ward 1 candidate

The Highlander will be running questions and answers with all municipal candidates during the month of September: Last week we featured Highlands East and next week we'll focus on Minden Hills.

Highlander election

Brian Lynch
Ward 3 candidate

1. I have spent many years in financial positions in both the for-profit and not-for-profit sectors. I have experience in both facilities management and human resources. I retired as controller four years ago from the largest group of automotive dealerships in Muskoka. In the past, I have volunteered for community activities, coached children’s teams, led scouting activities and worked on numerous church committees. Currently, I volunteer at Dorset Snowball, I am the church treasurer and a director of the very busy Dorset Lions Club.

2. I am running because I feel there are many unfinished projects in the township – the airport industrial park [and] the septic reinspection program to name just two. The timeline on public projects and programs is longer than in the private sector and after taking the first steps it is important to have continuity to see them completed.

Through this past term, I have worked hard to maintain knowledge of the issues before council. This has involved discussing pros and cons with both staff and ratepayers as well as sharing viewpoints around the council table. A 100 per cent attendance record at council demonstrates my commitment to this position. In addition, my committee attendance and [attendance at] the events that result in well above 90 per cent. This demonstrates my dedication to the township and this position.

3. I have been pleased with the work of council in maintaining fiscal responsibility while balancing more and more “passed down responsibilities” from the provincial and federal governments. Council is a cohesive group that in almost all cases can work together to achieve consensus on issues that are before them. Council continues to lobby upper levels of government to respect our planning and development rules. In this last term this was evident in the Stanhope septage spreading hearings and in the Harvey Lake Quarry [issue]. In the upcoming term I will be seeking a compromise that allows keeping a library branch in Dorset while making better use of the current library space.

1. My 17-year career as a humanitarian and human rights advocate has equipped me well for council. For instance, during the crisis in Darfur, Sudan, I served as program director for a number of refugee camps on the border between Chad and Sudan, overseeing an annual operating budget approximately double the size of Algonquin Highlands. I became skilled in developing budgets that balance urgent needs with regular service delivery and long-term development goals, seeking funding, and monitoring expenditures for efficiency and accountability. My research and advocacy experience is also highly relevant, given the number of concerns that residents in AH cite which lie outside the jurisdiction of the municipality but touch directly on municipal affairs and local life. The proposed McClintock quarry at Harvey Lake, or our lack of cell phone and Internet coverage, are perfect examples. The municipality can often only tackle these issues through advocacy.

2. My life has always been embedded in the complexities of public service at either the policy or implementation level, but until now, I’ve worked primarily overseas. I want to bring these skills home. It’s what I love to do, it’s what I do best, it’s what I want to continue to do. My comparative advantage over Councillor [Brian] Lynch, whom I respect greatly, is that I’ve got some unique research and advocacy skills that have taken me as far as Capitol Hill in Washington, Parliament Hill in Ottawa, and the United Nations. These skills would bring a fresh set of ideas, tools, and energy to our work on council.

3. I think our municipality is running extremely well. Individual households and specific lake communities have legitimate specific concerns ... [but] broadly speaking, our finances are in good shape, we’ve got important long-term projects that our reserve funds are steadily building towards, road maintenance rotation may seem slow for some but is actually quite efficient given the needs and the size of the team, [and] our municipal, professional staff is highly-skilled and dedicated.

[However], we’ve got some strong bylaws in AH focused on keeping environmental protection part of the equation in property planning; keeping the structures on our lakes to a reasonable size and number; and safe ... most families in AH are paying to do the right thing, but some pay nothing to do whatever they please. Our enforcement capacity could absolutely use a boost ... I think council could ramp up advocacy on some of those issues... as well as making sure we’ve got a stronger voice vis-a-vis the provincial government where new Crown land use permits encroach on local life.

Finally, ... let’s get an online feedback mechanism established where key matters can be put out [to seasonal residents] for comment.

Hydro installs backup system

While the cause of the Hydro One transformer station fire is still under investigation, the utility company has brought in a backup system in case the remaining transformer fails. A replacement transformer is expected to be up and running mid-November.

"We are working on an accelerated timeline to get a replacement transformer installed and in service," said Nancy Clark, Hydro One communications advisor.

"In the meantime, the station is in need of a backup should the remaining transformer at the station fail. We pulled together a solution that we have never implemented before on our transmissions system."

They connected two backup mobile units to "ensure power reliability for more than 20,000 customers," said Clark.

The fire at the County Road 21 station occurred during a storm on July 26, knocking out power to 23,000 customers. About 30 volunteer firefighters from all four lower-tier municipalities battled the blaze. (Mark Arike)

Temporary ban on new billboards

By Mark Arike

A letter from a local couple has prompted county council to place a moratorium on all new billboard signs. It will remain in effect until council reviews the current sign bylaw.

In May, Jean and Godfrey Tyler sent a letter to public works director Craig Douglas telling him that many of these signs are popping up along Gelert Road.

"As a resident regularly travelling on the Gelert Road there has been a recent proliferation of signs on this roadway," stated the letter. "It is reaching the point of no return 'ugly'. It also appears to be at odds with the tourism marketing campaign of the County of Haliburton promoting the natural beauty of lakes, forests and marshes."

They also addressed a new billboard that was to go up near a marsh along the road.

During an Aug. 29 meeting, Coun. Andrea Roberts gave an example of how one business has signs everywhere. She wanted to know if a limit could be considered in the bylaw.

"There's limited spacing, but we're not limited on [that]," said Douglas, adding he'd take note of that.

The current bylaw states that signs, notices and advertising within 400 metres of "any limit of an upper-tier highway" may be prohibited. Council has the power to "regulate the placement of signs and other advertising devices upon or adjacent to roads under the jurisdiction" of the county.

Coun. Murray Fearrey said there should be restrictions in environmentally sensitive areas.

Staff will bring the current bylaw to a future meeting for review.

Second year of septic inspections in the books

The Highlands East building department has concluded another summer of inspecting septic systems in the municipality. This year, summer students Jacquelyn Curphey and Tanya James were able to examine a total of 537 properties on Lower Paudash Lake, Gooderham Lake, Dark (Pusey) Lake and Grace River. "Most of the properties were in the acceptable (low-risk) ranges", Chief Building Official Laurie Devolin told council. Sixty-nine per cent of septic tanks were deemed low-risk on Gooderham Lake, according to a report presented to Mayor Dave Burton and council, 64 per cent of tanks on Dark Lake and Grace River received a low-risk grade, followed by 66 per cent on Lower Paudash

Lake. Devolin added that letters were sent to property owners whose systems were reported as moderate-risk or higher and that those owners understand what they need to do to get their systems in compliance. Deputy Mayor Suzanne Partridge asked Devolin how long it will take to inspect all systems in Highlands East and Devolin said she estimated it would take five years. A total of 903 systems were inspected in 2017.

One joins, six leave fire department

Council rubber stamped the addition of Michael Purdon to station three of the fire department, but also had to say goodbye to: Stuart Gourley, Melissa Bryan and Curtis Tighe from station four, Karen Mitchell and Kent Beynon from station six, and Shawn Heasman with station two. Councillor Joan Barton suggested that this is not a "mass exodus" of volunteer firefighters. Acting Fire chief Chris Baughman said he is not concerned about the roster. Baughman mentioned that two of the former firefighters moved away, one is returning to school, another cannot make the time commitments for training and one decided that firefighting is not for them.

Municipality considering amending "waste" bylaw

Highlands East could be cracking down on property owners who don't keep their lots in neat order. In his report to council, bylaw enforcement officer Wayne Galloway says he's received many complaints of homeowners not complying with the municipality's Clean and Clear bylaw. Galloway suggested items like un-plated motor vehicles in disrepair, appliances, as well as garden waste and animal carcasses be included in a potential updated bylaw. Another section would stress that homeowners not keep lands in any condition that would cause a fire.

The proposal also suggests that property owners be notified of any infractions in writing with seven days to comply.

The draft bylaw is not clear on enforcement other than to say that if Highlands East has to do remedial work, the cost would fall on the landowner.

A revised draft could be up for consideration at the next council meeting.

Studio Tour preview show continuing in Minden

By Felix Wong

Handpicked works of all the artists involved in the upcoming Haliburton County Studio Tour are now available for viewing at the Finn Artists' Centre. The preview show will run until Sept. 15 during gallery hours, Wednesday to Sunday, from 1-4 p.m. "It affords a chance for all our visitors to see the quality of work they could see when they visit the artists," said artist Carole Finn.

This is the 31st year of the tour. It features the artwork of the best artists in the county, all chosen through a strict jurying process, added Finn. She has been involved in the arts throughout her life, when she first started painting as a teenager. Finn began painting professionally when her husband passed away 10 years ago and transformed one of his offices into a studio and gallery, now known as the Finn Artists' Centre. Her painting knowledge came from courses at the Ontario College of Art and Design, York University and continual courses at the Haliburton School of Art and Design. "I love to meet the people who collect my work; it means that I have met a soul to bond with," she said.

Preceding the preview show was a social gathering on Aug. 30 at the artists' centre, which gave all the artists involved in the tour a chance to mingle and talk to one another about artwork, processes and more.

"This is a potluck for the studio artists because we never get together very much except at meetings, and meetings are pretty intense," said Finn.

"This is the first year we've done this and it's basically a marketing event to get people to see all the art."

At the event was painter Gord Jones, who is entering his second year as part of the studio tour.

"I was in the fall tour at Cathy Taylor's studio as a guest ... I found that I always liked art - it was something I liked to do, so I just kept at it," he said.

"So many people come and make a special trip in the fall to come to this tour ... I think we had about 700 people last year over two weekends."

Jones has been painting in watercolour for over 40 years.

Other artists involved in this year's tour include sculptors Sylvia and Wayne Rose, quilter Shelley van Nood, fabric artist Jane Selbie and many more.

The studio tour will take place on Sept. 29-30 and Oct. 6-7 at various locations across Haliburton and its surrounding areas. For a full of list of artists and locations, haliburtonstudiotour.on.ca/.

Terry's brother thanks Minden

By Highlander Staff

It was an emotional rendition of Terry Fox's story, straight from the mouth of his older brother.

This past weekend, on Sept. 8, Fred Fox raised the "Terry Fox Lives Here" flag at the township office and then joined members of the Minden Terry Fox Run Committee in hosting a special event at the Community Centre.

About 40 people made up the intimate crowd who heard about the Terry Fox Foundation and what it's like to experience the next generation who continue to do the good work his brother started.

Fred was invited to Minden Hills by local run organizer and friend, Diane Peacock, as it's the municipality's silver anniversary of their run. They are just shy of raising $300,000 for the foundation, who have raised more than $800 million towards cancer research.

"I wanted Fred to come because I wanted a special way to say thank you to our community for their fundraising efforts," Peacock told The Highlander.

Peacock approached Fred last spring about joining Minden for their special anniversary, but he could not come for the run. Instead, he agreed to visit Minden in advance of the run and with the run committee's help, organize a speech and meet-and-greet.

"I thought it would be a wonderful way to celebrate Minden's 25th anniversary," Peacock said.

Fred told the audience Terry was the brother who was always working and playing the hardest, the one who was never afraid to fail.

"Kids all over the world see him as a superhero," Fred said of his younger brother, "but really, we all knew him as just an average, ordinary kid with a never-give-up attitude."

Fred recalled when he and his parents found out that Terry had cancer.

"He had a knee injury, or that's what the doctors were treating it as," Fred said, adding Terry was playing basketball, rugby and generally was just an active kid. "We eventually found out that it was bone cancer and in 1977, we didn't know what that was."

The Community Centre had not a dry eye, when Fred recalled how the family felt when they found out. "We didn't know what cancer was, but I asked myself, why Terry? Why my brother?"

Fred said, in hindsight, he feels getting cancer made Terry a better person, if that was at all possible. "His heart grew larger."

Fox began the Marathon of Hope in April 1980, when he dipped his foot into the Atlantic Ocean in St. John's, N.L. He went as far as he could before having to stop due to the cancer spreading to his lungs.

For 143 days, Terry did a full marathon – every day – and he had covered 5,400 kilometres. Fred recalls he and his parents being in the car, listening to the news on the radio.

It was September 1, 1981 and as they listened, they found out Terry was in the hospital in Thunder Bay. It was then he told his parents, he didn't want one person to finish the run for him – he wanted everyone to.

On June 28, 1981, Terry Fox lost his battle to cancer.

Many remember the announcement on the news and where they were when they found out. An iconic moment in many Canadian's lives.

The Minden Terry Fox Run takes place this Sunday, starting at 9 a.m. at the Minden Community Centre. For more information on how to participate, visit facebook.com/Minden-Terry-Fox-Run.

Women hone hunting and fishing skills

More than 50 women travelled to Kinark this past weekend to learn more about hunting and fishing during the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters Women’s Outdoor Weekend (WOW). They were joined by more than 25 volunteers who wanted to share their love and knowledge of the outdoors, said Alesha Howran, a conservation outreach programs coordinator who put the weekend together. Howran said they had similar numbers to last year but the focus had shifted from a women’s retreat-style in the past to a more educational format this time around. For example, she said participants were more interested in guest speakers than entertainment. There were firearms basics and handling, fly fishing and how-to-clean fish demonstrations, archery, high ropes and rock climbing, as well as hunting skills. During the Saturday lunch, the Dufferin-Northern Peel Anglers and Hunters made a $1,000 donation to Kinark to put towards its fishing program for autistic youth. (Lisa Gervais)

Oom-pah for HHOA and fish hatchery

The Haliburton Highlands Outdoor Association (HHOA) served up a taste of Germany at its 19th annual conservation dinner this past Saturday night at the Legion in Haliburton. Dubbed Septemberfest, the evening featured a German band, Oktoberfest sausage and German Schnitzel with potatoes, vegetables and salads, breads and rolls, and, of course, apple strudel for dessert. There was also a silent auction, live auction and a 50/50 draw. Proceeds from the night went to the HHOA and fish hatchery. (Lisa Gervais)

Looking for a few good apples for project

By Lisa Gervais

Every fall, Haliburton County residents pick and donate apples, and then gather to brew up a batch of apple sauce.

The call to ensure access for all to fresh, local and nutritious food has gone out once again this autumn.

Starting next week, organizers are looking for pickers, donators and cooks.

“The Community Apple Sauce Project is a great way to ensure everyone in our community is able to eat fresh local food,” said the health unit’s Rosie Kadwell, who came up with the idea five years ago.

“Our county has many seniors and families that cannot afford to buy fresh produce. Having people volunteer to donate local apples or pick apples keeps the Apple Sauce Project costs down, and allows more people to enjoy the taste of fresh fruit,” she added.

Kadwell said the best way people can support the project is to donate local apples from their trees, or call Nancy Brownsberger at 705-457-2941 ext. 2926 to help pick apples during the week of Sept. 17.

Apples can then be dropped off on Sept. 18 and 19 to SIRCH Central, at 2 Victoria St. in Haliburton Village. It’s next to the laundromat. Drop-off times are 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

From there, volunteers will process the apples into apple sauce on Tuesday, Sept. 25 and Wednesday, Sept. 26 at the SIRCH Community Kitchen in Haliburton. The contact is Jay McIvor at SIRCH Central 705-457-1742

The apple sauce is then distributed with Meals on Wheels, SIRCH Frozen Meals and through local food banks.

The Apple Sauce Project is a partnership with: Haliburton County FoodNet, SIRCH, HHHS Community Support Services Division, Minden Community Food Centre, Highlands East Community Cooks, HKPR District Health Unit, Municipality of Dysart et. al., The Municipality of Highlands East, Entrée Plus, Haliburton County Echo and the public who takes part. The project is into its fifth year.
